BRITISH RETREAT A MASTER MOVE DECLARES HILLIS

The atrocities, said Dr. Hillis, were not the work of degenerates but all a part of the German plan of war to terrorize the people of opposing nations. Quoting from General von Hoffmann's work on "Law of German War on Land," he proved that arson, rapine and murder and mutilation of boys and girls was a part of the German sciences of military operations.

Age did not spare with the Germans. Babies in the cradle and men and women nearing the century mark alike suffered in other that the inhabitants might be terrorized.

Producing what is known as a soldier's token, a small disk carried by each man in his vest pocket, Dr. Hillis pronounced it the "most damnable thing that has come out of Hell." This bears an inscription insuring the soldier that in the day of judgment he shall not be questioned as to the atrocities he commits in the name of the fatherland. Following this up Dr. Hillis declared "the German Kaiser's God is my Devil." The Kaiser has had God and the Devil mixed for four years, he said.

Much evidence has been preserved to prove the atrocities of the Germans, said Dr. Hillis. Besides hundreds of photographs there are 100 mutilated bodies held at morgues, including the one of the woman with her husband's head inserted in the abdomen.

needed, the world at large having through other sources, come to a knowledge of the unspeakable cruelty and wanton brutality practiced under the guise of "military necessity" in every enemy country invaded by the German armies. But to the extent that Americans have not yet awakened to a full realization of the character of the enemy and own soldier-boys are now facing on the battlefields of France, the proofs Dr. Hillis accumulated personally and at first hand, are needed. They are also needed for the further purpose of forcing upon us the compelling necessity of standing back of and supporting with all our resources of men, means and material, our own soldiers and those of England and France with whom they are now fighting shoulder to shoulder.

Through these proofs we now know what we may before have but vaguely imagined would have been the consequences of the failure of the heroic armies of Belgium, France and England to check and hurl back the Hun hordes in the onward sweeps they were making toward Paris and the Channel ports in the early months of the war. Had the first German drive succeeded, and the English navy been captured or destroyed as the Kaiser had planned, the war would have been fought to its final conclusion in the United States and our own soil dyed as crimson with the blood of our sons as the soil of France has been
by the blood of its countless heroes.
Then would we have witnessed, with the same appaling and sickening horror, the same revolting scenes of murder, rapine and arson the hapless and helpless fathers, mothers, wives, daughters and children of Belgium
and France have witnessed.

Is not the mere contemplation of the possibility of these things hap-pend to our loved ones, aside from the vivid portrayal and the convincing proof of them, as presented by Dr.
Hillis, sufficient to awaken us all to an understanding that war, as waged by the Huns, would mean to us the same that it has meant to France, Belgium, Poland, Serbia, or in whatever country the foul, renegade Beast of Prussianism has trailed, or may yet trail, its blackened path of desolation, death and despair?

That the Beast may forever be shorn of its power to reproduce in this or any other country on earth the scenes Dr. Hillis described, are you not willing to serve, to sacrifice and to save as you never before dreamed possible
to do?

Unless we do these things, and do them now and willingly and with all our might, the war-worn Allies, even with the help of our own eager, brave and willing boys, may not be able, except through a long continued struggle, to force the authors of this world's present engulfing war to an abject and unconditional surrender, and forever render impotent the Beast that would drive Christ and civilization out of the world.

ON THE JOB.

By Gilman Hoo.
The German prop-agandist is always asking always has a new piece of triumph that comes out every bit of his and his countrymen. Dr. Davies, the Kaiser's American dentist, returned to this country recently and in several interviews detailed many of the unpleasantnesses and hardship, put up on Americans in Germany since the war began, not merely disorientates but actual police restraints upon their freedom, though many of them had been residents there for years and had many friends among the "inhabitants."

He cited cases of persons who were obliged to report to the police twice a day and were not allowed to leave their homes after dark. A professional man of Dr. Davies' position one would take to be a trustworthy witness.

But now see what happens. No sooner is his interview printed in an American paper than the German propagandist is informed of the matter and begins to get busy with a counter-blast in his unmistakable style.
By cable from Amsterdam comes a news
that the Nieuwe Rotterdamse Courant, prints a long interview with a personage who returned recently from a week's visit to Berlin. And among other things this "personage" was surprised to find that Americans enjoy the greatest freedom, that they are quite satisfied with their treatment, that no objections are raised against their speaking English, that they are living comfortably, etc., etc.

O yes, Fritz, you are a great propagandist. Only you are a little thick.
As between an American gentleman of repute and an original "personage" in a Dutch newspaper office, we have no trouble in knowing which is telling the truth.

In the 92 vicious, manly lads who went out from Connelville and vicinity today to take upon themselves the duties and obligations of soldiers in the cause of human freedom, we have just the ideal "personage" in a bad way to enforce that peace it would not dream to obtain by entreaties and lamentations.

Austro-Hungary hasn't enough
"moral right" or any other power left to enforce even a strong bluff.

With the very complete and systematic organization of the Third International League in Fayette county, it does not seem possible that any citizen can escape becoming a bondholder and a real patriot as well.

"Only too glad to have the lots utilized for war gardens," is the patriotic and generous offer of a former resident of Connelville to those who are in search of ground for gardening purposes. "Only too glad to utilize them" ought to be the response.

The Allies have another capable leader in assistant-dept. Leonard who led Wisconsin back into the ranks of the local commonwealths.

OUT IN THE COUNTRY.

Let's seek the rural regions, in pastures let us stray, where costly calves, in legions, and high-priced lambskins play. Now spring with flowers in wreathing the landscape everywhere, and there's no charge for breathing the wholesome country air.
It's an enchanting scene, an enchanting scene, when husbandmen are planting two-homes-a-bushel corn, my thoughts I cannot utter, as I drift round, where wives are making butter that brings six bits a pound.
The nights are growing shorter, the bright days longer grow, and hens, once worth a quarter, now bring a back a throw. Where crystal streams are flowing, I see the cattle browse;
the laughing maids are going, to milk
the spotted cows. I say, "Oh, milk, I'm follow, I'll have some milk, I think." They say, "All you can wait for, twenty cents a drink." Where sunbeams lightly quiver upon the wooded flat, I drink the brawling river—there is no charge for that. The singing skylark brings me the song of babbling mill; the bees come up and sting me, and don't present a bill.
Let's seek the rural maze, the lane and lonesome like, some things are cheap as blazes—the climate, and the like.

Just Folks

MRS. MALONE AND THE CENSOR.

When Mrs. Malone got a letter from Pat.
She started to read it aloud in her flat.
"Dear Mary," it started, "I can't tell you much,
I'm somewhere in France, and I'm choking the Dutch, and I'd like to relate,
But it's little a soldier's permitted
to do."
Do you mind Red McPherson's well,
he fell in a ditch.
An' busted an arm, but I can't tell you which.

"An' Paddy O'Hara was caught in a ditch
An' rescued by—Faith, I can't tell you his name.
Last night I woke up wid a terrible pain,
I thought for awhile it would drive
me insane.
Oh, the sufferin' I had was most dreadful, I hear!
I'm sorry, my dear, but I can't tell you where.
The doctor he gave me a pill, but I didn't take it, 'cause it was so shrouded in doubt.
But the best I can say is that one tooth is gone.
The censor won't let me inform you
which one.
I met a young fellow who knows you
right well,
An' ye know him, too, but his name
I can't tell.
He's Irish, red-headed, an' there
with the blarney,
His folks once knew your folks back home in Killarney."

"By jorrie," said Mrs. Malone in her flat.
"It's a pity," she said, "but I can't tell you his name.
But I'll give him as good as he send, that I will."
So she went right to work with her ink, well an' quill.
An' she wrote, "I suppose ye're dead
nigger by now.
Ye know where I left you were
blyin' the show,
Well, the baby has come, an' we're both doin' well.
Oh, but that somethin'
it's won't let me tell!"

HOW THE FRENCH TROOPERS APPEAR WHEN THEY ARRIVE NEAR THE FRONT TO HELP STOP THE HUNS

This photograph, which has just arrived in this country, illustrates the scene which is enacted when the French reinforcements approach the battlefield to help the British stop the great German drive. The men keep moving, division after division, and every one of them is grim and even eager to get into it.

Position of Steel Market Unchanged by Price Extension
Slight increase in shipments of finished products; Wages Advance a Surprise to the Trade.
Special to The Weekly Courier
NEW YORK, April 3.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will review the steel and iron trade tomorrow as follows:
The reaffirmation of finished and unfinished steel prices by government sanction for the second quarter of the year has not changed the position of the market a particle and the view is confirmed that the business proceeding the price fixing of a week ago was not due to uncertainties as to prices. Nor has the reduction of $1 on basic iron and $1.10 on Bessemer iron sensibly altered the pig iron market. The reduction of $1 a ton on all grades of scrap for which prices had been fixed has not loosened the market, though it constituted plain notice to anyone who might be hoarding scrap that he was merely marked to lose money if he did so. Dealers are seeking fresh arguments to show that the government should encourage scrap transactions through dealers.
Shipments of finished steel products have increased a trifle in the past week, through a further improvement in railroad conditions, but the more important item is the cumulative influence, now being felt, of five or six weeks of improving shipping conditions, whereby commercial consumers of steel are greatly relieved and those working on war business are still better supplied. The increased shipments have not entirely relieved the situation, and have not thus far caused any buyers to request mills to curtail their rate of shipment, but the trend is distinctly in that direction.

MEATLESS DAYS
SUSPENDED

According to an announcement the Government has suspended meatless days, which have been established for sometime, for a period of thirty days. We do not mention this to induce you to buy more meat; we feel, notwithstanding that ruling or order, everybody ought to consume on meats and fats, but our purpose is to call your attention to our attractive, sanitary meat markets. Meats are high priced now—admit it. Everybody admits that; source too—admit it. But a comparison of prices will find the Union Supply Company lower than most competitors, and a comparison of shops and equipment and service will find the Union Supply Company just a little bit better than most opposition; a comparison of stocks in the meat market, the variety, the quality, the quantity, will convince you that the Union Supply Company is just a little bit the best. The extraordinary quantities of fresh beef, fresh pork, salt and smoked meats, sausages, and all kinds of meat and meat products, is further evidence that the Union Supply Company's meat markets are just a little bit better. These markets also are supplied semi-weekly with fresh fish, fresh eggs, butter, a variety of cheese, schmier kaese; a complete line of salt and smoked fish, sardines and canned salmon. It is certainly to your advantage to buy from our meat markets.

FOUNDRIES IN NEED OF COKE BUT OFFERINGS ARE SCARCE

Furnace Contract Totals in Excess of the Total Coke Being Shipped.

LENGTH OF PRICE PERIOD

Subject of Some Speculation Since the War Industries Board Extended Steel Prices Until July 1; Clarification By-Product Plant Nearly Ready.

Special to The Weekly Courier.
PITTSBURGH, April 3.—Rather keen disappointment is felt in both coke and blast furnace circles at the poor supply of coke in the past 10 days. The coke movement had seen such a substantial improvement in the first three weeks in March, over the conditions of January and February, that a sense of security was felt that traffic conditions would continue to improve. There has not been a day of really fair coke supplies since Monday of last week.

Offerings of coke in the open market, which were just beginning to make a partially respectable appearance, are now a rarity again. Even foundry coke, which is more often seen in the market than furnace coke, is found only very occasionally, and is lower restricted to the area in which the railroad permit it to be shipped. Buyer is readily found. In other words, buyers who need foundry coke are omnipresent. As a rule wherever there is a foundry that is a foundry, there is a buyer.

It is doubtful whether all the coke that is being shipped is going out on regular contracts. While the total of contracts made probably exceeds the total of coke shipped, it is hardly likely that each operator has contracts equal to his shipments, but there is frequent lending of coke by one furnace to another, and private arrangements are sometimes made for the transfer of coke, so that the coke does not appear in the open market. Once furnace coke does appear as an open market offering, in any quantity, it can be assumed that the situation is almost easy. There is no doubt that all transactions made are at the set prices.

Some remark has been occasioned in the past week by the fact that in the second quarter of the year the War Industries Board included coke in its statement. It will be recalled that in connection with the original iron and steel price fixing last September coke was one of the materials upon which producers submitted prices to the War Industries Board and when iron and steel prices were then announced, the review by the President, coke was included. There was some controversy as to whether the coke price fixing at that time represented a voluntary agreement, as the pig iron and steel price fixing was considered, or represented action by the President under authority of the Lever act. The common opinion was that the latter was the case, for the simple reason that the coke price was really fixed by the President, while the Lever act, empowering the President to fix the price of coke, did not specify how or through what medium, he should make his decision public. Later, when the Fuel Administration got into working order, it formally announced coke prices. Now the War Industries Board announces them again.

As long as there is no change there is no issue, but should the War Industries Board make any important reduction in pig iron in the future it

COKE TRADE SUMMARY.

Taking the figures of last week's record of coke shipments as their base a very large gain is made to appear, the aggregate, by river and rail, being 233,793 tons, as against 202,337 tons of the previous week. The increase of 31,456 tons thus shown, is manifestly impossible under the conditions of car supply and other factors, has its explanation in the fact that last week's rail records have included with them a very considerable tonnage that had not passed the scales at the close of the previous week. Further, the returns of river tonnage include almost 20,000 tons belonging to the earlier week along with an increase of 8,200 tons over the actual movement, hence the abnormal gain in the week's combined movement. Deducting therefrom the proportion properly belonging to the preceding week's production, the output of the week will be found to be about the average of the weeks preceding the break-up of an exceptionally severe winter.

There is more active demand for foundry coke than offerings are made. Furnace coke contracts very probably exceed the amount of coke shipped. Furnaces lend coke to each other, and coke is transferred, hence such coke does not appear on the market. The extension of the steel price schedule by the War Industries Board to July 1 has given rise to some speculation as to the status of the coke price, or rather to revive the controversy that developed at the time the price fixing announcement was originally made.

might be disposed to reduce coke also and then there would be a controversy unless the Fuel Administration participated. In some quarters the action of the War Industries Board last week is interpreted as throwing some doubt upon the formerly accepted idea that coke prices are fixed for the remainder of the year. The market continues to be quotable as follows:

Furnace coke, 100 lb. net, $1.00
Foundry coke, 100 lb. net, $1.20
Blast furnace gas, 100 lb. net, $1.50

The Pennsylvania system has imposed restrictions on the movement of certain types of its cars, requiring that they be not consigned off its own rails. This particularly affects shipments that would go over the Philadelphia & Reading. The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie's restrictions are the same as formerly. None can go west of Cleveland, while cars of a certain type, numbered 600,000, to the number of about 2,000, are confined to the road's own tracks, except that they can go out to the extent of the switching limit, which helps some.

The Clarston by-product plant of 160 ovens is nearing completion, and may possibly produce some coke before the end of this month. The plant is directly under control of the Clarston By-Product Coke company but is commonly spoken of as a Carnegie Steel company property. It will produce about 50,000 tons of coke weekly. Connellsville region coal mines have been in process of improvement and adaptation to river shipments to take care of the new operation, as all the coal is to go by water. The following plants of the H. C. Frick Coke company will ship coal to Clarston: Palmer, Dilworth, Maxwell, Gates, Lambert, Edgemoor, Leekrose, Ronco, Bridgeport and Ralph.

The local coal situation is now relatively easy. Rail shipments have not increased materially in the past week or two but domestic requirements are now light and there has been a plentiful supply of river coal.

The pig iron market has remained quiet, in general, although there is slightly more activity. Consumers

Edwards, 609 Dwight Way, Berkeley, Cal.

These prices are for coke, furnace, freight to Pittsburgh in the case of the Allegheny being 95 cents.

W. P. Snyder & Company announced that their computation of average prices, at which pig iron sold in March showed $36.50 for Bessemer and $37.00 for basic, the former set prices. While sales made late last week would be at the reduced prices, since delivery could not be effected before April 1, it appears that any business then undertaken was put in the form of reservations, to be converted into actual sales April 1.

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFIES AND DARKENS HAIR

Don't Stay Gray! It Darkens So Naturally That Nobody Can Tell.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

FUEL BRIQUETS

Increased 35 Per Cent in Quality and 55 Per Cent in Value in 1917.

The output of fuel briquets in the United States in 1917 was 406,556 net tons, valued at $2,233,882, an increase over 1916 of 111,501 tons, or 38 per cent in quantity, and of $788,226, or 55 per cent in value, again breaking the record of the previous year.

According to C. L. Fisher, of the United States Geological Survey, the demand for fuel in 1917 was so strong throughout the whole year that there was no lack of market to limit the production of the virgin manufacturer. Despite the increased cost of labor, and of manufacturing, no part of the plant operated to full capacity, and reported a prosperous year.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "biliousness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "foggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c a box. All druggists.

HOME GARDEN PLAN SAVES TIME, MONEY, AND LABOR FOR GARDENER

HOW TO GROW Garden Peas.

Early peas require a rather rich sandy loam with good drainage in order that the first plantings may be made early in the spring. Fertilizers that are high in nitrogenous matter should not be applied to the land immediately before planting, as they will have a tendency to produce too great growth of vines at the expense of pods. Land that has been manured the previous year will be found satisfactory without additional fertilizer. While the sandy loam is to be preferred for early varieties, a good crop can be produced on almost any good soil.

The best plantings should be of such varieties as Alaska, or some of its modifications, which make a small but quick growth and may or may not be provided with supports. These should be planted about two weeks before the date of the last killing frost, or in fact may be planted as soon as the ground is in condition. The tall-growing sorts of the Telephone type are desirable for still later use, on account of their large production and excellent quality. Peas should be drilled in rows, one to two plants being sufficient for a 100-foot row. The individual peas should be placed about 1 inch apart in the rows. The distance between rows will depend upon the kind of cultivation to be employed, and upon the varieties used. The dwarf varieties need not be any further apart than necessary to insure cultivation, while the tall-growing sorts should not be planted closer than 8 to 2 1/2 feet apart.

A good scheme is to plant two parallel rows of peas about 6 or 8 inches apart, then leave a space of 18 inches or two feet and plant two more rows of seed close together. Fewer strings or less brush will be required to support them than when planted in single rows at the greater distance.

It is best to be grown for immediate use only, a quart will be enough to plant at one time. However, if it is desired to grow peas for canning, large plantings should be made. If space is available, it is an excellent plan to make considerable plantings at one time of some one variety, so that the peas for canning will be available in considerable quantities. This enables the housewife to get the coming out of the way in a comparatively short time. Successive plantings of the various varieties of peas should be made at intervals of about two weeks, until the weather begins to grow warm, when the plantings should be discontinued. It is possible, in some sections to grow a fall crop of peas. When this is done, early varieties should be used.—U. S. Department of Agriculture.

HOW TO GROW Onions.

Onions can be produced on almost any good garden soil, and constitute one of the standard crops found in almost every garden. The usual plan in the home garden is to plant sets in rows far enough apart to suit the method of cultivation to be followed. The sets need not be more than 2 or 3 inches apart in the rows.

Onion sets may be planted as soon as the ground can be worked and before frosts are over. Some kinds may be planted in the autumn. The onion or multiplier onion can be planted from sets in the autumn and will produce excellent early green onions.

Onions may be grown from seed either by starting the seed in the hotbed and transplanting to the open ground or by drilling in rows directly in the garden. With good soil and proper care it is possible to produce good-sized bulbs from seed in a single season.

Onions require frequent shallow cultivation, and it may be necessary to resort to hand work in order to keep the crop free from weeds.

If it is desired to use the onions as green or bunch onions they may be pulled at any time after they are large enough, otherwise they should be allowed to grow until they reach maturity. If the onions start to throw up seed stalks these should be removed, or the seed will be formed at the expense of the bulbs.—U. S. Department of Agriculture.

BE A "HOME GUARDENER"

The home gardens of America are the home guard in food production. The "home guardener" of this year—our second in the war—is forewarned and thus forearmed. The "home guardener," before he arms himself with his hoe, must fortify himself with knowledge. Every peck of vegetables produced for home use this year from ground that never before grew food will mean a certain quantity of meat or wheat released for use behind our battle lines. Join the "home guardeners."

HOW TO GROW Kale.

Kale is closely related to and possesses many of the characteristics of cabbage. It is very hardy and may be planted in the autumn in the entire southern portion of the United States. It will thrive on any good soil and responds readily to liberal applications of stable manure.

Kale may be sown in drills or in some cases may be sown broadcast. When sown in drills a quarter ounce of seed is sufficient for a 100-foot row. Kale may be sown as soon as the ground is in condition to work. Successive plantings may be made at intervals through the summer, but pickings can be made from the first planting during the entire season. When planted in drills the plants may be thinned as soon as large enough, using the ones removed for greens.—U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Determining Age of Planets.

A novel idea in estimating the physical condition of planets was put forth by M. Veronnet before the Academie des Sciences at a recent meeting in Paris. He based it upon a calculation of the quantity of water that rocks such as granite and porphyry absorb before becoming perfectly dry.

He said that on the moon all water has been completely absorbed by solar diffusion as the rocks gradually cooled. Venus is still surrounded by a thick layer of vapor, while no water has yet been condensed on the surface of Mercury, this planet being still in a condition in which its geological life has not begun, and consequently no clouds have yet formed on its surface.

M. Veronnet calculates that the rocks of our earth now contain absorbed water which would cover the earth to an average depth of about 400 metres. Titled Lady as Shoemaker. It is an interesting fact that, although the women of the United Kingdom have invaded most employments that formerly were followed chiefly by men, the shoemaking trade has not experienced much change in this respect. Yet, something over a hundred years ago, shoemaking was one of the "employments of high society" in London. Lady Sarah Spencer, in a letter to her brother, written about the year 1808, says: "In the evening we divide our time between music and shoemaking, which is now the staple trade of the family. I am today in a state of great vanity, for I have made a pair of shoes which is news for you. So if all other trades fail I shall certainly establish myself, cross-legged, at the corner of an alley to earn a livelihood in the midst of leather, awls and hammers."

Now They're Mellicyoddes.

"Dandies who are making their reappearance at the Royalty theater, were fast disappearing when C. A. Victoria began her reign, says the London Times.

Extravagance in dress and manners did not of course originate with them, but in earlier times there were other names for those who were noted for similar eccentricities. They were called beaux in the days of Queen Anne and the earlier Georges, "fops" and "sparks" being scornful synonyms.

In the latter half of the eighteenth century these fashionable fops were known as macaronis, and the dandies may be said to have come in during the regency.

HONOR FLAG WILL REWARD BUYERS

Every Community in the United States Is Requested to Fly Banner in Third Drive

WOMEN MAKE SILK ONES AS GIFTS TO THE CITIES

Honor Rolls Will Be Displayed at State Capitals and Grand Roll at Washington

The Liberty Loan Honor Flag is to be one of the big features of the Third Liberty Loan drive. It is the creation of James H. Burton of New York City and has the hearty endorsement of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo who has expressed the hope that every town in the United States will be flying one of the flags before the campaign for the third drive is very far along.

The flag which will be awarded by the Treasury department to each community as its quota is attained is a flag 32 1/2 inches, a white field surrounded by a red border and with three blue stripes running perpendicularly through the middle. In many of the cities patriotic women are going a step further than the Treasury Department and are working on the manufacture of a silk Honor Flag to be ready for flying when they have earned the right to display it. In Cleveland the girls of the Junior League are sewing on a huge flag, following the comparative dimensions of the official flag which the Treasury Department awards, and they mean to donate it to the central committee before Cleveland will have reached its quota.

Women's Clubs Make Them. In some of the other cities and towns of the Fourth Federal Reserve district church societies and women's clubs are planning to make a flag larger than the official one. But great care is being taken by these volunteer flag makers not to get away from the proportionate measurements of the official flag.

The raising of the flag in each community should be a gala event and preparations are being generally made for patriotic addresses, entertainments, parades and other forms of festivities at the time when the banners shall be officially flown. The raising of a sample Honor Flag over the Treasury building in Washington recently was a picturesque sight. For the first time in the history of the Treasury Department every one of its employees stopped work for fifteen minutes to attend a public event.

Five thousand persons broke into wild cheering in the thronged streets in front of the building as Lewis B. Franklin, director of the War Loan organization, pulled the flag to the top of the pole from which it flies.

The making of the first flag in Washington was supervised by Mrs. William G. McAdoo, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury.

When the campaign gets under way there will be an honor flag in each state, at the capital, and a national honor flag in Washington. With the state flag there will be displayed a state honor roll on which will be inscribed the name of every community in the state as far as the communities subscribe their quota and win the right to fly their flag.

In Washington the names of the states will go on the National Honor Roll as fast as the states attain their quotas. The idea of the Honor Flag and Honor Roll system is to inspire that friendly rivalry between communities and units of population which will result in a maximum number of subscriptions to the loan and add the keen edge of competition to the selling campaign.

Window Cards Are Important. Window cards bearing a replica of the honor flag and a blank for the name of the purchaser will be given to each subscriber for display in the window of his home. The window cards measure 7x9 inches. They serve not only as a testimonial to the loyalty of the householder who has one in his window but they are of great value from an advertising standpoint.

If John Jones has one in his window to greet the gaze of Bill Smith, who hasn't bought a bond, every time Bill Smith goes by Jones' home, it will not be long before it penetrates to Smith's slower comprehension that he has a duty to perform. And eventually Bill Smith's window is going to have to have a flag, too.

Use All Available Space.

Intensive culture and carefully arranged rows will help make every foot of available space in the small garden produce the maximum yield.

Spring Styles for Children

In the last exhibitions of styles in the fall there appeared some unusual combinations of cloth in dresses, among them broadcloth and linen in handsome "lapper" frocks, that proved very attractive. The idea is coming to the front again in the displays of spring apparel for little girls, as well as in clothes for their elders. Aside from this there is very little that is altogether new in spring styles for children.

A dress of fine white voile for the little girl of eleven or so is shown in the picture. It is made with a little jacket or coat effect, with a smocked panel of voile set in at the front. Light blue silk is used in the smocking, the stitches forming bands of color across the short waistline at the front. A collar, cuffs, and narrow girdle of the broadcloth are in blue and small white buttons make a pretty finish for them.

Voile is durable and dainty and will stand wear and rubbing. The blue broadcloth must be handled with care when the time comes to wash it. The dress for the little girl of three at the right of the picture is of blue chambray. It has collar and cuffs of heavy white cotton goods and pockets of the chambray. Needlework in black is used to outline a border at the bottom of the pockets. The skirt has a few shallow pleats, but the bodice is plain.

BAR WAY TO EVIL SPIRITS

Malayans Believe Mountains Were Placed to Shut Out Strange Race of Yajuj.

In the dark bungalow at Kuala Kubu (in Malaya) the Chinoy chowk-chow, queue in pocket, shod in shoes of silent felt, served my breakfast. I was at last on the threshold of a strange expedition in a land to which no letter ever came correctly addressed, so unknown was it to the outside world. At this moment the strangest thing in sight was my breakfast. It consisted chiefly of one of the Mongolian fancies—humming birds in a tin, squabs in tins—canned a dozen to a tin.

As I devoured the pitiful little birds, bones and all, I looked up at the great Malay mountain range, the backbone of the finger peninsula which stretches southward from Siam to within sight of the band of Singapore itself. Mountains, so the Malays say, are the wall of the world, shutting out great winds and beasts of prey. And they believe that a strange race, the Yajuj—are forever striving to bore through, and when they succeed, then will come the end of all things.

The great limestone caves scattered throughout the mountains are places where the Yajuj have attempted and failed. There is nothing impossible or unbelievable in all this, when one comes to know Malay mountains in all their weirdness.—William Beebe, in the Atlantic Monthly.

Mr. Robert Williams, Calaburg, Mo. December 27th, 1917.

Dear Sir:

You are right when you say in yours of December 24th that Senreco is a remarkably good tooth paste and that it has a strong story to tell, but the difficulty lies in putting that story in such language as will convince the public.

The Senreco story of a medicinal paste that not only cleanses the teeth but also keeps mouth and gums healthy, when put on paper does not sound very different from the story of just any ordinary dentifrice.

For that reason we make every effort to get the people to try Senreco. After that Senreco tells its own story - and fully 90% of them are Senreco users and boosters from then on.

There is a Senreco user in Pittsburgh who has introduced our product into the families of thirty-four of his friends. Right? Not entirely. Simply a case of Senreco making good. It is just as stated above. If they will try Senreco - if they once become acquainted with a real dentifrice - with what a dentifrice can and should be - they are Senreco boosters from that time on.

Your druggist or toilet counter can supply you with Senreco. It comes in large, two ounce tubes and retails at 25c.

Why not get a tube to-day? Try it. We stand behind every package of Senreco with a money-back guarantee.

Very truly yours,
SENRECO,
CINCINNATI.

RAINBOW'S END

BY REX BLACH
AUTHOR OF
"THE IRON TRAIL" "THE SPOILED" "HEART OF THE SUNSET EYE"
COPYRIGHT, BY HARRIS AND BROTHERS.

Daylight came at last to show him his way. More than once he passed, alarmed at voices in the woods, only to find that the sounds issued from his own throat.

It had grown very hot now, so hot that heat-waves obscured his vision and caused the most absurd forms to take shape. He began to hunt aimlessly for water, but there was none. Evidently this heat had parched the land, dried up the streams, and set the stones afire. It was incredible, but true.

Esteban reasoned that he must be near home by this time for he had been traveling for days—for years. The country, indeed, was altogether unfamiliar; he could not recall ever having seen the path he trod, but for that matter everything was strange. In the first place he knew that he was going west, and yet the morning sun persisted in beating hotly into his face! That alone convinced him that things had gone awry with the world. He could remember a great convulsion of some sort, but just what it was he had no clear idea. Evidently, though, it had been sufficient to change the rotation of the earth. Yes, that was it; the earth was running backward upon its axis; he could actually feel it whirling under his feet. No wonder his journey seemed so long. He was laboring over a gigantic treadmill, balancing like an equilibrist upon a revolving sphere. Well, it was a simple matter to stop walking, sit down, and allow himself to be spun backward around to the place where Rosa was waiting. He pondered this idea for some time, until its absurdity became apparent. Undoubtedly he must be going out of his head; he saw that it was necessary to keep walking until the back-spin of that treadmill brought Rosa to him.

But the time came when he could walk no farther. He tried repeatedly and failed, and meanwhile the earth spun even more rapidly, threatening to whirl him off into space. It was a terrible sensation; he lay down and hugged the ground, clinging to roots and sobbing weakly. Rosa, he knew, was just around the next bend in the trail; he called to her, but she did not answer, and he dared not attempt to creep forward because his grip was failing. He could feel his fingers slipping—slipping. His last thought, as he went whirling and over and through space, was of his sister. She would never know how hard he had tried to reach her.

Late on the second day after the battle Asensio returned to his home. Rosa and Evangelina, already frantic at the delay, heard him crying to them while he was still hidden in the woods, and knew that the worst had happened. There was little need for him to tell his story, for he was weeping, stained, and bloody. He had crossed the hills on foot after a miraculous escape from that ravine of death. Of his companions he knew nothing whatever; the mention of Esteban's name caused him to beat his breast and cry aloud. He was weak and feverish, and his incoherent story of the midnight encounter was so highly colored that Rosa utterly swooned with horror.

The girl stood staring while he told how the night had betrayed them, how he had brought incredible feats of valor before the shifting side of battle had speared him out the end of the sunken road and left him half dead in the grass. Asensio had lain there until, finding himself growing stronger, he had burrowed into a tangle of vines at the foot of a wall, where he had remained until the fighting ceased. When the Spaniards had finally discovered their mistake and had ceased riding one another down, when lights came and he heard Colonel Ochoa cursing them like one insane, he had wriggled away, crossed the calzada, and hidden in the woods until dawn. He had been waiting ever since; he had come home to die.

Asensio recovered, but he was badly changed. There was no longer any martial spirit in him; he feared the Spaniards, and tales of their atrocities cowed him.

Then Cobo came into the Yumud. The valley, already well-nigh deserted, was filled to the brim with smoke from burning fields and houses, and through it the sun showed like a copper shield. Refugees passed the bolho, bound further into the hills, and Asensio told the two women that he and they must also go. So the three gathered up what few things they could carry on their backs and fled.

They did not stop until they had gained the fastnesses of the Pan de Matanzas. Here they built a shelter and again took up the problem of living, which was now more difficult than ever.

The Pan de Matanzas, so called because of its resemblance to a mighty loaf of bread, became a mockery to the hungry people cowering in its shelter. Bread! Rosa Varona could not remember when she had last tasted such a luxury. Raw cane, coconuts, the tasteless fruita bomba, roots, the pulp from palm tops, these were her articles of diet, and she did not thrive upon them. She was always more or less hungry. She was ragged, too, and she shivered miserably through the long, chill nights. Rosa could measure the change in her appearance only by studying her reflection from the surface of the spring where she drew water, but she could see that she had become very thin, and she judged that the color had entirely gone from her cheeks. It saddened her, for O'Reilly's sake.

Time came when Asensio spoke of giving up the struggle and going in. They were gradually starving, he said, and Rosa was ill; the risk of discovery was ever present. It was better to go while they had the strength than slowly but surely to perish here. He had heard that there were twenty thousand reconcentrados in Matanzas; in such a crowd they could easily manage to hide themselves; they would at least be fed along with the others.

No one had told Asensio that the government was leaving its prisoners to shift for themselves, supplying them with not a pound of food nor a square inch of shelter. Asensio's tired desperation at last; Evangelina's courage failed her, and she allowed herself to be won over. She began her preparations by discarding her dress. Gathering herbs and berries, she made a stain with which she colored the girl's face and body, then she sewed a bundle of leaves into the back of Rosa's waist so that when the latter stooped her shoulders and walked with a stick her appearance of deformity was complete.

On the night before their departure Rosa Varona prayed long and earnestly, asking little for herself, but much for the two black people who had suffered so much for her. She prayed also that O'Reilly would come before it was too late.

CHAPTER XII.

A Woman With a Mission. Within a few hours after O'Reilly's return to New York he telephoned to Felipe Alvarado, explaining briefly the disastrous failure of his Cuban trip.

"I feared as much," the doctor told him. "You were lucky to escape with your life."

"Well, I'm going back. Won't you intercede for me with the junta? They're constantly sending parties."

"Um-m! not quite so often as that," Alvarado was silent for a moment; then he said: "Dine with me tonight and we'll talk it over. I'm eager for news of my brothers and—there is some one I wish you to meet. She is interested in our cause."

"She? A woman?"

"Yes, and an unusual woman. She has contributed liberally to our cause. I would like you to meet her."

"Very well, but I've only one suit of clothes, and it looks as if I'd slept in it."

"Oh, bother the clothes!" laughed the physician. "I've given most of my own to my destitute countrymen. Don't expect too much to eat, either; every extra dollar, you know, goes the same way as my extra trousers. It will be a sort of patriotic 'poverty party.' Come at seven, please."

That evening O'Reilly anticipated his dinner engagement by a few moments in order to have a word alone with Alvarado.

"This lady who is coming here tonight has influence with Enriquez," Alvarado told him. "You remember I told you that she has contributed liberally. She might help you."

O'Reilly had met women with ideals, with purposes, with avocations, and his opinion of them was low. Women who had "missions" were always strange, he had discovered. This one, it appeared, was unusual only in that she had adopted a particularly exacting form of charitable work. Nursing, even as a rich woman's diversion, cannot be anything but agreeable. O'Reilly pictured this strange person in his mind—a large, plain, elderly creature, obsessed with impractical ideas of uplifting the masses! She would undoubtedly bore him stiff with stories of her work; she would reproach him with neglect of his duties to the suffering. Johnnie was too poor to be charitable and too deeply engrossed at the moment with his own troubles to care anything whatever about the "masses." And she was a "mis."

That meant that she wore thick glasses and probably kept cats.

The Two Chief War-Time Foods

Mother's Oats At 1/3 the Cost of Meat

Mother's Oats, measured by food units, is twice as nutritious as round steak. It supplies nutrition at a cost of five cents per 1000 calories.

Meats, on the average, cost eight times as much for the same food value. Eggs cost ten times as much. You can serve six dishes of Mother's Oats for the cost of a single egg.

The oat stands supreme among grain foods, in nutrition and in flavor. It far exceeds wheat in food units.

It is the energy food and the food for growth. It supplies every needed element in just the right proportion. It should be your basic food.

Mother's Oats is flaked from queen grains only—just the big, rich, flaky oats. We get but ten pounds from a bushel. So in this brand you get a wondrous flavor without any extra price. All oat foods are doubly delightful if made with Mother's Oats.

Quaker Best Corn Meal The Best 60% of the Corn

Next to oats in economy comes Corn Meal. We make an exquisite corn meal, and put it up in sealed round packages.

In Quaker Corn Meal we use the cream of the corn—about 60 per cent of the kernel.

The fibrous outer coat is removed, because it makes corn meal coarse. The oily germ is removed, because the oil grows rancid. Just the hominy part—yellow or white—is ground to make Quaker Corn Meal.

The result is superlative corn meal, yellow or white. The yellow looks like grains of gold—the white like marble dust. It makes bread and muffins, porridge, puddings and pancakes vastly better than any crude corn meal.

Get the Yellow or White in round packages with tops. See how good corn meal can be.

WAYS WITH MEAT.

A dish which will take the place of meat and is most nourishing is Philadelphia scrapple. Take a cleaned pig's head and boil until the flesh slips easily from the bones. Remove all the bones and chop the meat. Set aside the liquor in which the head was cooked until cold, then take off the fat. Return the liquor to the heat and add cornmeal to make a mush and cook until well done, then stir in the chopped meat and any seasonings desired. Some like a little sage with the pepper and salt. Pour the mush into a mold which will form slice-shaped slices and set away to become firm. Slice and fry for any meal. This makes a very popular Southern breakfast dish. One may use any bits of chopped meat, or pork scraps left from trying out pork rather than the pig's head if preferred.

Chopped Steak—Put two pounds of round steak twice through the meat chopper, season with pepper and onion juice, form into a flat cake and place in a greased baking pan over a hot fire. Brown and then salt well the browned side and quickly brown the other. Set in a hot oven to finish cooking and serve with a brown sauce made from the liquor in the pan.

Leg of Mutton Cooked in Cider—Buy the leg of mutton several days before using it. Wipe and rub with the following mixture of spices: A half teaspoonful of cinnamon, the same of allspice and cloves, pepper, nutmeg and ginger. Rub these into the meat well, making pockets to hold them under the skin in places. Let stand two days. When wanted to roast place in a large pan with four chopped onions and a cupful of seedless raisins. Pour over it two quarts of sweet cider and cover with oiled paper or another pan. Put into a hot oven and when the meat is well browned reduce the heat, basting and cooking slowly for two hours. Add salt a teaspoonful to the pond as it goes into the pan to roast. Be sure it is well rubbed in. Serve with the sauce boiled down until thick. Strain, remove the fat and turn into a sauceboat.

Real Troubles. The kitchen's not now we and. He seems to lose the touch. He has so much upon his mind. He hasn't time to kick.

Driven to It.

"How did you happen to go in for aviation?" "I was driven to it. Three years ago an heiress turned me down, and I've been up in the air ever since."

Suiting the Occasion. "When I rolled up Miss Maud yesterday, they were all so cold to me."

"Why, didn't you know yesterday was one of their headless days?"

LIFE PRIMITIVE AND RUGGED

Scenes on Bosom of Russia's Mighty River Cannot Be Duplicated Anywhere on Earth.

The days on the Volga are as alike as the white towns strung on the Volga chain, and all laden with a sense of life, sluggish and primal and potential. The accent of places, of new-mown hay, of trying nets, and the fragrance of lilacs; brassy red-shirted sailors shouting and splashing each other with water as they scrub the decks; the whistling of grain steamers; the sound of hammers from barges building along the shore; anchor chains rattling as we drop into the wharf where fishermen are unloading their shining catch. It is a robust river life, not familiar, but transposed into strange keys and staged largely.

The rafts seemed the most essentially Russian part of the Volga. We had seen them before. Gargantuan yellow logs, as delicious looking as fatty, drag a forest in Tver and bend together with saplings, each raft bearing a tiny hut for the families who make the journey with the rafts to the sea. Now we met them on the river, peopled with rollicking figures, who balanced themselves with long poles and laughed and shouted unintelligible cries to us as the surge of the steamer threatened their frail hold.

The truckers, barikade, we never saw; dehaired men of herculean strength, muscles knitting in their hairy throats, thaws scurrying like horses against the dead weight of the barges as they had painted them. They have passed with the sails. But the other figures—on the rafts, in the fishing boats—are their brothers. And never have I felt life emerging so freshly from the black mold—Olive Gibbrenth in the Yale Review.

FIRST THOUGHT IS ISOLATION

Aviator Longs for Sound of Human Voices When He is Soaring Far Above the Earth.

I became conscious of a feeling of loneliness, writes James N. Hall, in the Atlantic. I remembered what J. B. had said that morning. There was something unpleasant in that isolation, something to make one look longingly down to earth; to make one wonder whether we shall ever feel really at home in the air. I, too, longed for the sound of human voices, and all that I heard was the roar of the motor and the swish of the wind through wires and struts—sounds which have no human quality in them, and are no more companionable than the lapping of the waves would be to a man adrift on a raft in midocean. Underlying this feeling, and no doubt, in part responsible for it, was the knowledge of the fallibility of that seemingly perfect mechanism which rode so steadily through the air; of the quick response which that ingenious arrangement of intricate matter would make to an eternal and inexorable law, if a few frail wires should part; of the equally quick, but less pliant response of another fallible mechanism, capable of registering horror, capable, it is said, of passing its past life in review in the space of a few seconds, and then—capable of becoming equally inanimate matter.

"My son wants to marry your daughter. Can she cook a dinner?" "Yes, if your son can give her anything to cook it with."

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep Seated Lactic Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poisons Start to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

The Connelville Drug Co., whom you all know is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer in this vicinity that if two bottles of Allenbur's Pure Converter of Rheumatism, does not stop all aches, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinges of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenbur's has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiful and where the patient was helpless.

Allenbur's relieves at once. Immediately after you start to take it the good work begins. It searches out the uric acid deposits dissolves the secretions and drives rheumatic poison out of the body through the kidneys and bowels.

It is marvelous how quickly it acts. Blessed relief often comes in two days, and even in cases where the suffering is most painful all traces disappear in a few days.

Mr. James N. Allen, the discoverer of Allenbur's, who for many years suffered from the most acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenbur's decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed the Connelville Drug Company to guarantee it in every instance—Adv.

HARLEM OIL CAPSULES IF YOUR BACK ACHES

Do you feel tired and "worn-out"? Are you nervous and irritable? Don't sleep well at night? Have a "dragged out" unrefreshed feeling when you get up in the morning? Dizzy spells? Bilious? Bad taste in the mouth, hiccups, pain or soreness in the joints, and abdomen? Severe distress when urinating, bloody, cloudy urine or sediment? All these indicate gravel or stones in the bladder, or that the poisonous microbes, which are always in your system, have attacked your kidneys. You should use GOLD MEDAL Harlem Oil Capsules immediately. The oil soaks gently into the walls and lining of the kidneys, and the little poisonous animal germs, which are causing the inflammation, are immediately attacked and chased out of your system without inconvenience or pain. Do not delay a minute. Go to your druggist and insist on his supplying you with a box of GOLD MEDAL Harlem Oil Capsules. In 24 hours you will feel renewed health and vigor. After you have cured yourself, continue to take one or two capsules each day so as to keep in first-class condition, and ward off the danger of they do not help you. Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand, and thus be sure of getting the genuine.—Adv.
